

The North American Soccer League

1975

FURTHER expansion took place in 1975 as the number of NASL teams increased from 15 to 20. NASL soccer returned to Chicago for the first time since 1968 and new teams were also added in Hartford, Portland, San Antonio and Tampa.

The League also revised its tie-breaking procedure, introducing 15 minutes of sudden-death overtime if a game was tied after 90 minutes, the overtime period to be played in two seven-and-a-half minute halves. If the game was still tied at the end of that time, the teams reverted to a penalty-kick shoot-out. Teams were awarded six points for a win in regulation time or overtime.

In the club records, games won in sudden-death overtime are shown by a plus sign (+), games won by the penalty-kick shoot-out method are shown by an asterisk (*).

Another new club, Tampa Bay Rowdies, won the championship with a 2-0 win over Portland Timbers in what was now called the 'Soccer Bowl', but the most notable event in this season was the signing of Brazilian superstar Pelé by the New York Cosmos. Pelé gave the NASL the major League image it so long desired and his signing led to the League's most successful years.

Other well-known names making their debuts in the League in 1975 were the Portuguese star Eusebio, who played for the Boston Minutemen, England and Chelsea goalkeeper Peter Bonetti, who played for St Louis, England and Manchester United winger Gordon Hill with Chicago, Scotland and Celtic winger Jimmy Johnstone with San José and Welsh international defender Mike England with Seattle.

Peter Withe, at that time a relatively unknown Birmingham City player, played for Portland in the Soccer Bowl. Withe later starred for Aston Villa and England.
